

2023 - 2024 FEDERAL DUCK STAMP PRINT

“Tundra Swans” by Joe Hautman

The winning 2023-2024 Federal Duck Stamp design portrays three tundra swans in flight over a peaceful fall landscape. This is the sixth time Joe Hautman has won the annual art competition run by the U.S. Department of the Interior. The Duck Stamp, officially the Migratory Bird Hunting and Conservation Stamp, is considered to be the most successful conservation program ever initiated. Since its inception in 1934, the sale of the stamp has raised over $1.1 billion dollars conserving 6 million acres of land for the National Wildlife Refuge system.

Every fall hundreds of thousands of Tundra swans, also known as Whistling swans, migrate about 4,000 miles from their arctic breeding grounds to wintering grounds located along the east and west coasts of the lower 48 states. Hautman’s inspiring painting has been reproduced as a collectible limited-edition print suitable for framing along with the iconic conservation stamp.

The Collector's Edition

This is the most popular edition. The lithographic print is hand numbered and personally signed by the artist. The Collector's edition is traditionally framed as shown along with the stamp itself which serves as a statement of your support of this vital conservation program. (Please note that the framing and stamp are not included in the price of the print shown below.)

The Medallion Edition

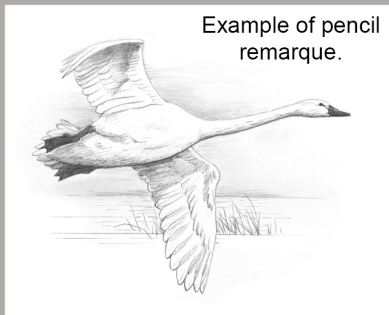

A 24-karat gold-plated medallion and a lower edition size adds to the distinction of this print. Each lithograph is numbered and personally signed by the artist. Traditionally this print is framed as in the example shown below along with the medallion and two duck stamps, one mint and one signed by the artist. (Framing and stamps are not included in the price of the print.)

Remarqued Editions

Two remarqued editions are available. Each print comes with a 24K gold-plated medallion and bears an original, one-of-a-kind piece of artwork by Joe Hautman below the printed image. The Executive Edition print carries an original pencil drawing, and the President's Edition is distinguished by an original color remarque. Traditionally the print and medallion are framed along with mint and artist-signed duck stamps. (Framing and stamps are not included in the price of the print.)
